2016 AACC International Annual Meeting October 23–26 • Savannah, Georgia, U.S.A.

Join Your Colleagues!

Get ready for a reinvigorated AACCI Annual Meeting program with more session types, topics, and time for discussion and networking. The program planning team is taking an in-depth look at scientific topics that are relevant for today's cereal grain science professionals and how to provide the best opportunities for learning, interacting, knowledge sharing, and problem solving.

The small, targeted sessions make this the ideal meeting for engaging with the cereal science community. Attend the AACCI Annual Meeting to take your research, your career, and the industry to the next level!

Scientific Focus

The 2016 meeting program will continue to focus on innovation and cutting-edge advances in cereal grain science. We thank all abstract submitters for helping us create an innovative and strong program. The scientific sessions and posters will focus on the following primary categories as well as some new areas.

Primary Abstract Categories:

- Researching Health Benefits of Grain and Components
- Promoting Sustainability and Benefits of Grain Consumption
- Supporting Quality, Food Safety, and Regulatory
- Providing Transparent and Proactive Science Based Communication

The Annual Meeting Technical Program Planning Committee especially looked for abstracts that address:

- Animal/pet nutrition
- Big data
- Communication
- Plant breeding
- Regulatory
- Sustainability
- Novel technologies

Savannah, Georgia – “The Hostess City”

The meeting will be held at the Savannah International Trade & Convention Center. Overlooking Savannah's world-renowned Riverfront and landmark Historic District, the convention center and area hotels offer breathtaking waterfront views in the heart of a walkable city. Year after year, Savannah ranks in the “top ten” cities to visit in reader polls in publications like Condé Nast Traveler, Travel + Leisure, and USAToday.com.
